Session 27 as written runs about 95 minutes. This insert adds two short videos and one talk, which fills the session to two hours without changing any of its content.

What's in this insert

- Video 27A, "Consequential Thinking" (1 min 52 s). The week so far, the one consequence most people think about, the rock thrown into water, and the people standing on the shoreline: your mother, your children, your cellmate, the man you harmed, the officer who deals with the aftermath, the community. It ends on "Who is standing on your shoreline?" and holds it for 20 seconds.
- Video 27B, "Four Kinds of Consequences" (1 min 50 s). Short-term and long-term, positive and negative; the trap ("The payoff is now. The price is later."); then the guide's worked example side by side: escalating, and pausing and walking away. It ends on "The choice that feels powerful in the moment is usually the one that costs the most over time."
- A talk on one decision's ripples: Azim Khamisa and Ples Felix, What comes after tragedy? Forgiveness (TEDWomen 2017, 12 minutes 57 seconds), with discussion questions.

Run of show (120 minutes)

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
0:00	Opening Circle	10	As written, with the personal rules homework check.
0:10	Video 27A , then Review and Reflection	10	Play it straight after the check-in. It gives the ripple image in the guide's words and ends on the shoreline question. Ask the men to name their people to themselves; aloud only if they choose.
0:20	Video 27B , then Instruction: Short-Term vs. Long-Term Consequences	15	The video walks the four categories and the guide's example. Use the rest of the segment to map a second decision the group chooses, in four boxes on the board.
0:35	Instruction: Ripple Effect Mapping	15	As written, on the board. Keep the map up for the talk discussion.
0:50	Talk: Azim Khamisa and Ples Felix	13	Introduce it in one sentence: "In 1995 a 14-year-old shot and killed a college student. The father of the young man who died and the grandfather of the boy who fired stand on this stage together. Listen for every person that one decision reached."
1:03	Talk discussion	10	Questions below. It leads straight into Part 1: the men have just seen one decision traced all the way out.

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
1:13	Practice Exercise: Playing the Tape Forward and Rewriting the Decision	35	As written.
1:48	Closing Circle	10	As written. After this talk and this exercise, the closing question about a decision they are proud of matters; go last as the guide says.
1:58	Buffer	2

Discussion questions for What comes after tragedy? Forgiveness

1. Azim says there were "victims at both ends of the gun." Put that one decision on today's ripple map: who was in the first ring, the second, the third? (Write them next to the group's map.)
2. Ples describes the night: Tony ran away from home, took the drugs and alcohol he was given, was handed a gun, and an 18-year-old gave the orders while boys he thought were friends watched. Where in that chain could a different choice have been made, by Tony or by anyone around him? What would Step 1, stop and think, have looked like?
3. Short term and long term: what did the decision seem to offer in the moment, and what did it cost, to whom, and for how long?
4. Azim says the young man will tell students, "It's not worth it," and that they will listen because he is the one who pulled the trigger. Why does that voice reach young people when others don't? Whose voice could you be?
5. Azim chose forgiveness. Ples chose to show up for the family his grandson harmed. Those were decisions too. What ripples did they send out?

Preview the talk before the session. It describes the killing plainly but not graphically, and Ples mentions that Tony saw a cousin killed in gang gunfire as a child. Some men in the room have lost someone to violence, and some have caused a loss. Give the room one line of warning, and watch for anyone who goes quiet; the guide's Week 9 note on emotional responses to consequence mapping applies here too. The talk is also openly spiritual: both men speak of meditation and prayer.

Men will ask what happened to Tony. Tony Hicks was released in 2019 after 24 years in prison and went to work for the Tariq Khamisa Foundation, the foundation named for the man he killed, speaking to young people alongside Azim and his grandfather. He died in July 2026, aged 45.
