Session 46 as written runs about 105 minutes. This insert adds an opening video, a video of the four principles, and one talk, which fills the session to two hours.

What's in this insert

- Video 46A, "The Spirit of MI" (1 min 42 s). The gap Weeks 13–15 left open ("What do you do when the person you're trying to help doesn't want help?"), where Motivational Interviewing came from (William Miller and Stephen Rollnick, the 1980s, addiction treatment), the guide's one-sentence version ("a way of talking with people that helps them find their own reasons for change... Not your reasons. Their reasons."), and the three sessions of the week. It ends on the opening-round question, Has anyone ever tried to change your mind about something by arguing with you? What happened?, and holds it for 20 seconds.
- Video 46B, "The Four Principles of MI" (2 min 11 s). Partnership, acceptance, compassion and evocation, one at a time, in the guide's words ("I'm here with you, not above you"; "Is what I'm about to say for his benefit, or mine?"; "You're not pouring something into an empty cup"), with all four on screen as the guide asks. It ends on the guide's check for understanding, What's the difference between a mentor who uses MI and a mentor who just gives advice?, and holds it for 20 seconds.
- A talk on listening to people who come at you: Dylan Marron, Empathy is not endorsement (TED, 10 minutes 42 seconds). He gets hateful messages online. Instead of arguing back, he calls some of the people who sent them and starts with one simple question. It is rolling with resistance, and acceptance without approval, in a real conversation.

Run of show (120 minutes)

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
0:00	Video 46A	2	Play it before anything else, with the room already in a circle. It ends on the opening-round question; send the talking piece.
0:02	Opening circle	10	As written; the question is already on screen. After the round, say the guide's "Notice what almost everyone just said..."
0:12	Review and Reflection	10	As written. The video asked the guide's bridge question ("What do you do when the person you're trying to help doesn't want help?"); tie it to what the men just said in the circle.
0:22	Instruction: What Is Motivational Interviewing?	15	As written. The video gave the one-sentence version; "why this matters in here" and "MI is not a trick" are yours.
0:37		20

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
	Video 46B , then The Four Principles of MI		Play the video at the start of the segment. It shows the four principles on screen, so you don't need to write them up. It ends on the check for understanding; take the 2–3 answers the guide asks for, then go through each principle as written.
0:57	Rolling with Resistance	15	As written.
1:12	Talk: Dylan Marron, Empathy is not endorsement	11	Introduce it in one sentence: "People send this man hate. Instead of arguing back, he calls them up and asks one question. Watch what happens when he listens."
1:23	Talk discussion	2	One question from below, answered by one or two men. Come back to question 4 during the Stages of Change.
1:25	Change Talk vs. Sustain Talk	10	As written.
1:35	The Stages of Change	15	As written, including the five-scenario exercise and debrief.
1:50	Closing circle	10	As written.

Questions for Empathy is not endorsement

1. Marron never argues with the people who attacked him. What does he do instead, and how is that rolling with resistance?
2. "Empathy is not endorsement." How is that the same thing the guide says about acceptance, that it "doesn't mean you approve of everything they're doing"?
3. He asks the young man a simple question about his own life: how is high school going? What did that question open up that an argument never would have?
4. Marron says one phone call didn't fix everything, but it made the two of them human to each other. What does that tell you about the goal of one conversation with someone who isn't ready to change?
