Session 22 as written runs about 95 minutes. This insert adds two short videos and one talk, which fills the session to two hours without changing any of its content.

What's in this insert

- Video 22A, "Through Someone Else's Eyes" (1 min 58 s). Week 8 turns the lens outward: understanding other people, reading a room, building relationships. It gives the guide's bridge from last week ("accountability requires empathy"), previews the four-viewpoints exercise, and ends on the check-in question, held for 20 seconds.
- Video 22B, "Three Types of Empathy" (2 min 26 s). Cognitive, emotional and compassionate empathy on screen, with the guide's examples (the bunkmate written up for something he didn't do, the man whose mother died), too little and too much emotional empathy, and "empathy is not a personality trait. It's a skill." It ends on the silent-reflection question, "Where has a lack of empathy cost you?", held for 20 seconds.
- A talk on seeing the other side: Jarrell Daniels, What prosecutors and incarcerated people can learn from each other (TED Salon, 2019, 11 minutes 54 seconds), with discussion questions. Daniels served six years, starting as a teenager. A few weeks before his release he took a class in which eight incarcerated men and eight prosecutors learned side by side.

Run of show (120 minutes)

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
0:00	Opening Circle, with Video 22A first	12	Play the video as soon as the men are seated (2 min). It ends on the check-in question; send the talking piece straight into the round as written.
0:12	Review and Reflection	10	The video has given the bridge from last week. Say it again in your own words if you want to, then do the quick check on last week's amends work as written.
0:22	Instruction: Three Types of Empathy	25	Part 1: ask "What does empathy mean to you?" and take 3–4 answers. Part 2: Video 22B (2½ min). When it ends on "Where has a lack of empathy cost you?", let the silence run to a full minute, then ask where empathy has saved them. Open discussion as written (5 min), then the guide's transition: "Most of the harm in this building..."
0:47	Talk: Jarrell Daniels	12	Introduce it in one sentence: "He was a teenager when he went to prison. Near the end, he sat in a classroom with the people who prosecute cases like his. Listen for what each side saw that it hadn't seen before."
0:59	Talk discussion	8	Questions below. They lead straight into the exercise.

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
1:07	Practice Exercise: Perspective-Taking — Four Viewpoints	40	As written, with the four scenario cards.
1:47	Closing Circle and homework	10	As written.
1:57	Buffer	3	Count times, movement and late starts.

Discussion questions for the Jarrell Daniels talk

1. Jarrell expected the prosecutors to be "emotionless drones or robocops." What did he find instead? When have you been sure you knew what someone on the other side was thinking, and been wrong?
2. After hearing his story, the prosecutors could see he never wanted to hurt anyone. Which type of empathy was that: understanding, feeling, or being moved to act? Where in the talk do you see the other two?
3. Years later he walked across a room to shake the hand of the man who prosecuted him. What do you think each of them was thinking, feeling and needing in that moment? (This is the exercise you are about to do. Let it be the warm-up.)
4. He says what changed him was listening to older men serving life sentences, who helped him rethink what it means to be a man. Who has helped you see something from another person's side?

Preview the talk before the session. Jarrell describes briefly, without images, the day he was cut with a knife and shot a man who survived, and his mother's abuse at the hands of his stepfather. He also talks about race and the justice system. The room should not be surprised.
