Session 23 as written runs about 105 minutes. This insert adds two short videos and one very short talk, which fills the session to two hours without changing any of its content.

What's in this insert

- Video 23A, "Reading the Room" (1 min 43 s). The bridge from yesterday's empathy work: every group has structure, a mentor's first job is to read the room, and every man changes a room when he walks in. It previews the session and ends on the guide's question, "When you walk into the dayroom, how long does it take you to know something is wrong?", held for 20 seconds.
- Video 23B, "Seven Cues" (2 min 27 s). The guide's seven nonverbal cues on screen, lighting up one at a time as the narrator reaches them: eye contact, posture, hands, proximity, micro-expressions, tone and pace, breathing. It closes on "same skill, different purpose" and ends on the discussion question, held for 20 seconds.
- A three-minute talk on group dynamics: Derek Sivers, How to start a movement (TED2010, 2 minutes 52 seconds). A festival crowd, one man dancing alone, and the first follower who changes what the whole crowd does. Played twice: once with the sound off, as an observation exercise, and once with sound.

Run of show (120 minutes)

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
0:00	Opening Circle	10	As written: the homework check comes first, face to face.
0:10	Review and Reflection, with Video 23A	10	Play the video right after the check-in (1¾ min). It ends on the guide's question; take 2–3 answers, then make the guide's point about "radar" in your own words: they already have it, and today makes it conscious.
0:20	Instruction: Social Awareness and Nonverbal Cues, with Video 23B	20	The video (2½ min) plays at the start and covers the seven cues. It ends on the guide's discussion question; take 3–4 examples and push each man to name the exact cue he picked up on. The discussion can run longer than written.
0:40	Instruction: Group Dynamics and Power Structures	15	As written.
0:55	Talk: Derek Sivers, How to start a movement	6	First play it with the sound off: "Watch the crowd the way you'll watch the circle later today. Who looks at whom? When does the mood change?" Then play it again with sound.
1:01	Talk discussion	7	Questions below.

Time	Segment	Min	Notes
1:08	Instruction: How Your Presence Affects Others	10	As written. Question 4 below leads straight into it.
1:18	Practice Exercise: Silent Observation	30	As written.
1:48	Closing Circle and homework	10	As written.
1:58	Buffer	2

Discussion questions for How to start a movement

1. With the sound off, what did you see? Who did people look at? When did the mood of the crowd shift, and what caused it?
2. Sivers says the first follower is "an underestimated form of leadership." Think about the dorm: who are the first followers, and what are they following?
3. The dancer broke a norm, and the crowd decided what happened next. What happens in the dorm when someone breaks a norm in a good way, like showing vulnerability or cleaning when it isn't his turn?
4. "New followers emulate the followers, not the leader." What are the men who watch you learning from the way you carry yourself?

Preview the talk before the session. The footage is a crowd at an outdoor music festival, with a shirtless young man dancing. Nothing in it is graphic.
